AN AUTOMATIC TRAP LAID BY JAPS

They Have Invented a New Kind of Weapon That Is Within the Laws of The Hague Tribunal...

St. Petersburg's Views.

(Special by Scripps-Metlae.)
St. Petersburg, April 30.—A heavy engagement on the Yalu is reported. Sixteen thousand Japanese crossed on Thursday and attacked thirty thousand Russians who were strongly fortified. It was rumored this morning the Japanese were reinforced and the battle continued. Japanese sharpshooters have killed many Russian officers, whose uniforms are conspicuous.

Russian Report

St. Petersburg, April 30.—A report from Gen. Kuropatkin of today's date says the night of April 28-29 passed quietly. Small bodies of Japanese are moving to the right bank of the Yalu, at the mouth of which steamers are arriving. No word was received today from Vladivostok, but news of battle by fleets there is expected momentarily.

Jap Victory

Washington, April 30.—The state department officials have reported to the effect a great battle has been fought on the Yalu, resulting in a complete victory for the Japanese.

Menace Ports

St. Petersburg, April 30.—Viceroy Alexieff telegraphs under yesterday's date that Japanese ships were sighted six miles off Port Arthur last night and that yesterday morning ten Japanese cruisers and six torpedo boats were seen in an adjacent bay. Viceroy Alexieff later reported that a Japanese squadron had been sighted off Vladivostok. The reports aroused anxiety. Naval circles are speculating whether the enemy will venture to approach Vladivostok at closer range than last time.

St. Petersburg, April 30.—The Japanese are stated to be laying a new kind of automatic mine, floating just below the surface, several miles out from Port Arthur. They are of native invention.

Although The Hague laws do not prohibit this kind of weapon it is considered here that the spirit of the convention does, and that, in view of the risk to neutral ships, it should be forbidden.

The Japanese object is presumably to make easy victims of any ships of the Vladivostok fleet, or, at a later date, the Baltic squadron, which may try to enter Port Arthur.

Japanese Threaten Vladivostok.
St. Petersburg, April 30.—Viceroy Alexieff informed the czar that Japanese ships were sighted six miles off Port Arthur, and that ten Japanese cruisers and six torpedo-boats were seen in Usuri bay, near Vladivostok.

The report aroused considerable anxiety. Naval circles are speculating whether the Japanese will venture to approach Vladivostok at closer range than last time.

Rumors are persistent of fighting on the Yalu river, but it is declared no serious engagement has taken place.

Denver, Col., April 30.—W. M. Ward, organizer of the United Mine Workers' union, and John Mitchell, personal representative in Colorado strike, was assaulted by three men last night while in a Rio Grande coach at Sargent last night. He was so badly injured he may die. Union leaders say he was assaulted at the instigation of the coal companies.

STOP ALL GAMES
ON TURKEY DAYBeloit College Decides Not To Play
Any Thanksgiving Day Games
In the Future.

The Beloit football eleven will play no more games on Thanksgiving. The Board of Control, at its meeting, decided to abolish the custom of playing the last game of the season on Thanksgiving Day and instead will have it on the week previous.

This plan is being quite generally adopted in the West as well as in the East, and will undoubtedly prove more satisfactory to both students and to those who are obliged to train through a long period of several weeks. The game which has been arranged with Knox college on Turkey day will have to be transferred, but it is thought that it will draw better if played in Rockford some time earlier when it will possibly be more comfortable weather.

and that the fighting has been limited to affairs of outposts, the Russians contesting and harassing the Japanese advance.

Martial Law West of Liao.

Peking, April 30.—Russia is about to enforce martial law west of the Liao river. It is understood here. The government is worried, and the Dowager Empress has ordered the provincial governors to abandon her birthday celebration, and to use the money collected for that purpose to equip 72,000 troops immediately.

Bridging the Yalu.

Nagasaki, April 30.—Successful bridging operations are now reported from the Yalu. The passage over the river by General Kuropatkin's army is not to be expected until the Japanese are prepared to strike heavily all along their selected front.

Seventy-Three Drown.

Tokio, April 30.—As a result of the sinking of the Japanese transport Kin Shu Maru, which was torpedoed by the Russian armored cruiser Rossa, seventy-three Japanese were killed or drowned. The Kin Shu Maru parted from the convoy of torpedo-boats in a fog and met the Russian fleet. She was ordered to stop, and the Rossa steamed alongside, summoned her navigating officers on board the Rossa, and sent a searching party on board the transport. This party discovered two companies of soldiers concealed below, and reported the fact to the Rossa. The latter discharged a torpedo, which struck the Kin Shu Maru amidships and broke her in two.

While the transport was sinking the soldiers on board of her rushed on deck and fired volleys from their rifles into the Rossa, and as the Kin Shu Maru sank several of the soldiers killed themselves.

Three boats which floated free from the wreckage were the means of saving forty-five soldiers and nine of the Kin Shu Maru's passengers and crew. Two captains and three lieutenants were among the soldiers drowned. The survivors succeeded in getting ashore and were conveyed by steamer to Gensan.

Advices from Gensan confirm the reports that the soldiers refused to surrender to the Russians, preferring death. One noncommissioned officer committed harakiri, according to the ancient Samurai custom and the others used rifles to kill themselves.

Russians Move Supplies.
Shanghai, April 30.—The bulk of the supplies of the Russian army at Liao Yang is now being conveyed to Feng Huang Cheng. Admiral Alexieff is said to have ordered the Port Arthur squadron not to change its position until Admiral Skrydloff arrives. Meanwhile, the torpedo-boat destroyers have been specially detailed to guard the entrance to the harbor.

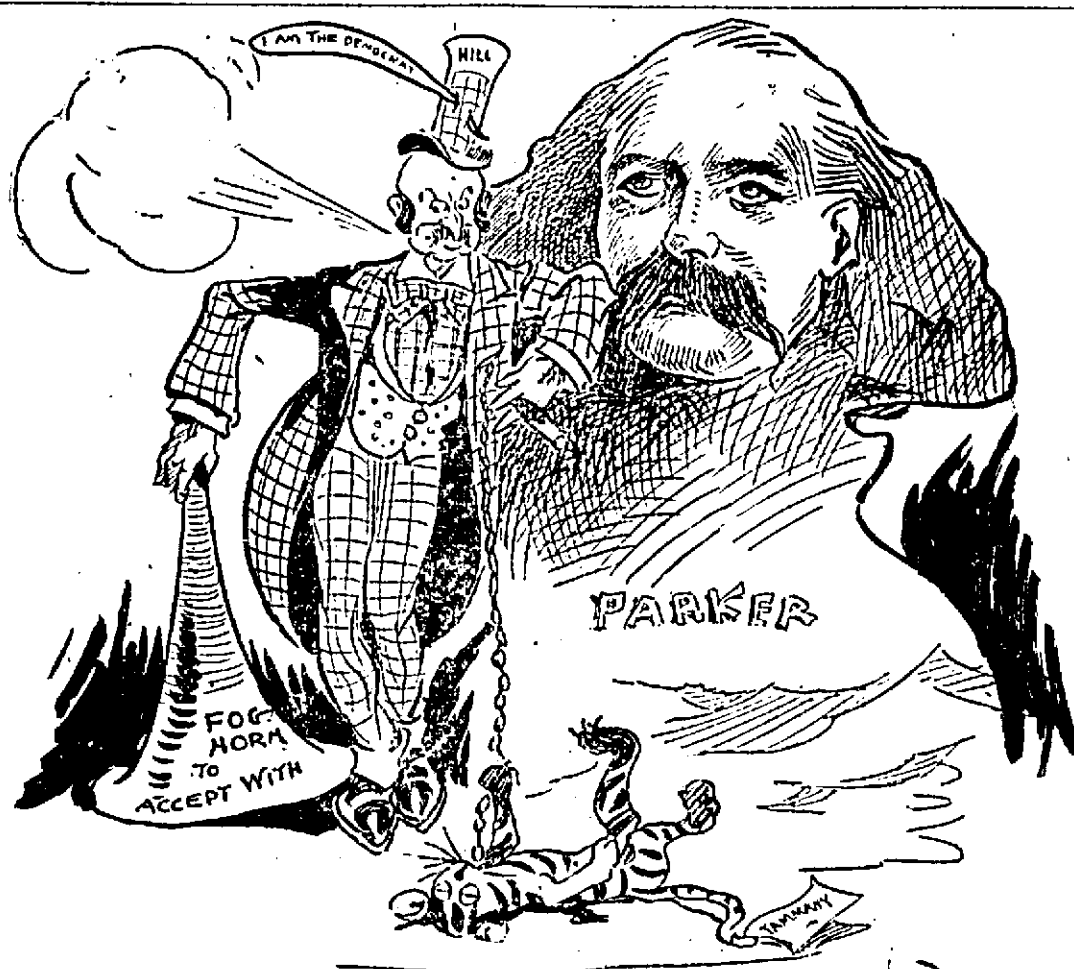

Advices from Gensan confirm the reports that the soldiers refused to surrender to the Russians, preferring death. One noncommissioned officer committed harakiri, according to the ancient Samurai custom and the others used rifles to kill themselves.

PLANS TO BUILD
BOARDING STABLED. C. French of Rockford, is Negotiating for Purchase of Several Lots on Franklin Street.

A mammoth barn to accommodate 150 teams, with harness and blacksmith shops in connection, is to be constructed on North Franklin street between Wall and West Bluff if negotiations now in progress are brought to a successful issue. D. C. French of Rockford is the promoter and the enterprise will involve an expenditure of $12,000. The purpose is to meet a demand for suitable quarters for farmers' teams. A free of ten cents is charged for the service and similar projects in Beloit and Rockford have paid well on the investment. The property is owned at the present time by John Edwards, Miss Louise Hanson and Mrs. E. Dano. W. W. Nash is one of the local men who has interested himself in having the deal closed as he believes that the enterprise will be a common benefit to farmers and merchants.

ANNUAL PARADE
AT UNIVERSITYThe Shirt Tail Brigade Made Its Appearance at Madison
Last Night.

(Special to The Gazette.)
Madison, Wis., April 30.—A riot between Wisconsin university students and police officers of this city occurred last night during a "shirt tail" parade of the former. The police used their clubs upon the heads of the students and succeeded in landing their two prisoners, whom others sought to take from the officers by force, in jail on the charge of appropriating danger signal lanterns from public street obstructions. The students numbering fully 1,000, dressed in night robes, pajamas and sheets paraded the streets carrying banners, pounding tin cans and singing college songs. They invaded Flom's theatre, a popular beer hall, and there smashed picture frames, chairs, took pictures of actors and actresses from the vestibule and stopped the performance. In the excitement Proprietor Fred Flom either dropped or was relieved of a roll of money from his pocket amounting to $65. Ralph E. Davis of Des Moines and George A. LaRue of Reedsburg, engineering students, were the two arrested. Alderman William H. MacKenzie went on the hall bonds and the students were released to appear in the municipal court. The demonstration was charged to pre-judicial excitement and to the warm spring days and to recent baseball victories of the 'varsity' team. By strenuous efforts the influence of state, city, political and university friends succeeded in suppressing the publication of the names of the persons involved in local and Milwaukee newspapers.

NEWS OF THE STATE IN BRIEF

The mortgage on the Centenary Methodist church at Menominee has been burned, with appropriate exercises.

Eugene Calkins, aged 22 years, a brakeman on the Appleton branch of the Milwaukee railroad, was injured at Appleton on April 12, died at Hillcrest on Friday.

William Kennedy, a Polk county insane patient, escaped from the Iowa county asylum and attacked Supt. Perkins with a pitchfork when recapture was attempted. Kennedy is still at large.

A Kenosha insurance company paid to his mother a policy of $350 on the life of Peter Neldner, the Chicago bandit hanged a week ago. The policy was written in Kenosha four years ago.

Wausau is in the midst of a potato famine. The potato crop of last year was a practical failure. The wet season and the cold weather of last summer prevented the potatoes from ripening, and most of them rotted in the ground. This winter, the severe cold weather froze them in most of the cellars. Potatoes are now selling at $1.10 a bushel, and that are scarce, and most of those that can be had are touched by the frost. Many families in this city have been without potatoes for several weeks.

Miss Lavina B. Sweetnam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sweetnam of Albany will be married to T. Charles Barker of Peoria, Ill., at noon on Sunday by the Rev. A. J. Quinn.

MAYOR WILSON TODAY.

BELLS TOLLED OUT FAREWELL

As Imperial Band with Muffled Drum
and Long Funeral Cortège Passed City Hall.

This afternoon at half-past two o'clock at the family residence on South Jackson street, the funeral services over the remains of Janesville's deceased mayor, Hon. A. O. Wilson, were conducted by Rev. Denison, pastor of the Congregational church. All those sterling qualities of the man which endeared him to his fellow-citizens, his unimpeachable integrity, his democratic, his willingness to fight manfully for right, his faithful labors for the city, his simple, modest, and unobtrusive life were remembered in the tributes laid at his bier. There was a profusion of beautiful flowers, including floral pieces from the city officials and the Municipal league. All of the city officers attended the services in a body and the funeral procession was escorted to Oak Hill cemetery by the Imperial band and a detail from the fire department, consisting of the fire police. The archway leading to the city hall is draped in mourning and all business was suspended there this afternoon out of respect to the memory of the departed. The bells at the east and west side fire stations and the city hall were tolled from the time the cortège left the house until it had passed the city hall. The pallbearers were: Hiram Merrill, Samuel Cobb, Judge B. F. Dunwiddie, O. F. Nowlan, Levi Carle, and H. L. McManara.

HON. A. O. WILSON

On Monday a man will be stationed at each place to care for this material and to bury decayed matter. Any person found guilty of dumping rubbish at other points than those specified above will be prosecuted. By order Health Committee.

LA FOLLETTE SAYS
BAND IS PLAYINGBelieves All Opposition to His Third
Is Now Vanished into Thin Air.

(Special to The Gazette.)
Madison, Wis., April 30.—From the executive office it has been announced that the band-wagon of Governor La Follette is now under way and that the remaining county caucuses will "clinch" the third term campaign of Governor La Follette in Wisconsin. A prediction is made, conditioned upon the governor holding his own with respect to his strength two years ago in the remaining counties, that he will have 90 votes to spare over a majority in the state convention. If this prediction of his managers is correct, he will be re-nominated for a third term and will name himself and three others as delegates at large from Wisconsin to the national republican convention. Governor La Follette and all the republicans of Wisconsin are for Roosevelt, but the governor desires to have an opportunity to try to write into the national platform something against the railroads and great corporations.

The confidence of the administration faction is declared by the opposition managers to be unfounded either by the returns from the caucuses thus far held or by the prospect in the remaining counties. They point to the losses already sustained by the governor over two years ago, some 166 state convention votes, and express assurance that the same losses will result in the remaining counties. The indications are that the governor will lack enough votes to nominate him in the convention on the first ballot, but the margin will be small.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRE

Mrs. Mary Hoover Page of Chicago was elected auditor of the International Kindergarten union.

James E. Campbell, former governor of Ohio, will return next fall to his home town, Hamilton, O. He has for the last five years been a resident of New York. Like David B. Henderson, former speaker of the house of representatives, who has just announced his intention of quitting New York, Mr. Campbell says he prefers the quiet of a smaller town.

Among the first cabin passengers who sail today on the steamship Republic from Boston for Queenstown and Liverpool are Mr. and Mrs. William Fliekey, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton H. Prinsville and Miss Jeanne Prinsville, of Chicago.

General Peter J. Osterhaus, the distinguished union officer, who arrived in this country from Germany a few days ago, called on the president yesterday to pay his respects. He was accompanied by Representative Bartholdt and Henry Evers of St. Louis, who is the personal escort of General Osterhaus in this country.

BLAME PLACED
BY THE BOARDAccident to the Battleship Iowa Has Been Determined as Defective Forgings.

THE WORK WAS TWICE CONDEMNED

Influence Was Brought To Bear, and the Rejected Pieces Were Finally Permitted To Be Put In Use.

Washington, April 30.—Without definitely fixing the cause, the board of inquiry into the accident on the battleship Iowa Feb. 5, when two of the 8-inch guns blew off their muzzles within twenty minutes, reports two matters which will be regarded as explaining why the accident occurred. While the board does not say so definitely, it seems to be clear that the accident was caused by the use of defective forgings, which rendered both guns incapable of withstanding the increased muzzle velocity incident to smokeless powder.

Forgings Are Defective.

Forgings for those sections of the guns which gave way were made by the Midvale Steel Company. The forgings were found to be defective and were rejected. The company protested and brought influence to bear. Again the matter was taken up and the forgings rejected. Still the company's officers worked to have the forgings taken by the department. Finally they succeeded, and the forgings went into the guns.

Will Inspect River Work.

Washington, April 30.—The members of the House rivers and harbors committee will start in a few days on an extended trip to inspect work now in progress and that may be contemplated in the future. They will be in Chicago some time in July for the purpose of studying the Chicago River proposition. Just as soon as the work of removing the tunnels in the Chicago River is commenced, Congress will begin considering appropriations for the improvement of the river for the benefit of navigation. The committee desires to study this proposition beforehand so as to be in position to act intelligently when the matter is brought up.

Red Cross Fund Is Diverted.

Washington, April 30.—Senator Proctor said the investigation of the Red Cross Society by his committee would be continued next week. Despite the efforts to keep the testimony secret, it has leaked out that John H. Morlan, former Red Cross agent and confidential employe of Miss Barton, testified that a large part of $20,000 contributed for the Russian famine sufferers in 1891 was used at Miss Barton's direction to purchase the Gardner farm in Indiana, which was supposed to have been given to the society, and to pay other bills in no way connected with the Russian famine. Morlan is said to have shown checks to substantiate his story.

ST. LOUIS EXPOSITION IS FORMALLY OPENED TODAYPresident Roosevelt Sets the Great Wheels of the Trans-Mississippi Fair in Motion at One Fifteen P. M.

(Special by Scripps-Metlae.)
St. Louis, April 30.—Under fair skies and in the presence of 150,000 people the Louisiana Purchase exposition opened today. President Roosevelt at 1:15 pressed the key in Washington which set in motion the gigantic mass of machinery and varied activities of the fair. A multitude gathered at the Plaza at St. Louis and avenues leading to it. President Francis, barchended, watch in hand, stood between Secretaries Taft and Moody. All eyes were fixed upon the distant hall of festival; a flag was seen to rise slowly on the distant flag staff. Flashes immediately broke out on every part of the buildings and grounds. Simultaneously came the whirl and roar and creak of railways and wheels as the huge pieces of machinery sprang into motion. Upon the

WORLD'S FAIR AT ST. LOUIS OPENS

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES MARK THE INITIAL DAY. IMMENSE CROWDS ARE THERE

Sights That Have Never Been Seen Before at Any Exposition—Everyone Pleased.

St. Louis, April 30.—Along the broad avenues and spacious terraces of the great fair city representatives of all nations gathered here today. Tall and stout Americans from the southernmost region of America walked side by side with the Esquimaux—children of the frozen north. Subjects of the milkyo wandered along the roadway casting furtive glances at the three cockades of the Don; sooty Nubians, jostled yellow Mongols, and picturesque Turks, Moors and Soudanese added rich color to the picture. It was a veritable congress of nations. Of course all Europe was represented. Foreigners of dignified appearance and resplendent in uniforms covered with gold lace were encountered at every turn. There were Germans, Austrians, Englishmen, Swiss, Italians and Spaniards. France, the original possessor of the great Louisiana territory, was much in evidence.

Above the heads of the throng floated the flags of all nations. The British Union Jack fluttered in the breeze side by side with the sun standard of Japan; the tri-color of France was everywhere; and the Austrian eagles flew in the air, along with those of Germany. The white and blue of the Fiji Islands, the crescent and sun of Arabia, the lion of Persia, China's yellow dragon pennant, the snake and eagle of Mexico, all these were there; and floating above them all the standard of the great republic, the stars and stripes, snatched in the breeze, a symbol of liberty and asylum to the oppressed of the whole earth.

The wisdom of the committee on ceremonies in making the opening exercises as brief as possible was evident. No one was in a humor to listen to long speeches or flowery dissertations. That sort of thing was well enough at the dedication exercises a year ago, but today every one was anxious to begin the inspection of the great exposition, and the crowds that ebbed and flowed through the great white palaces and along the broad avenues was an earnest of the multitudes yet to come when the pilgrimage to the Mecca of civilization should have been fairly begun. Of course, everyone who could obtain entrance to the big auditorium listened with attention and respect to the orators of the day, but there was an evident disposition to begin sight-seeing as soon as possible.

It is true that the exhibits are not yet complete in all their details. They have not arrived so rapidly as was expected, and the work of classification has been somewhat delayed. Still with these drawbacks, the attractions may be said to surpass those of any previous exhibition in its completed state. Satisfactory as this condition of affairs is, yet contrasted with the display which will greet the visitor a week or two hence, that of today will be remembered only as a prologue to one of the most instructive and bewildering spectacles in the history of the world. It is safe to say, however, that none of the visitors today was dissatisfied with what he saw. From end to end, throughout every part of the great tract of 1,240 acres, there was a succession of strange and novel sights, moving multitudes and a display of the resources and products of civilization such as has never before been collected in one place.

All the arrangements for handling the crowd were excellent. The gates were at no time choked and the throng passed into the grounds with less trouble than is often experienced at a theatre or other place of amusement. The crowd itself was a good-natured one. Aside from the foreigners, who after all formed but a small fraction of the great throng, the bulk of the multitude was made up of St. Louis people. This was to be expected, considering the fact that most of the prospective visitors from other states have long ago made their arrangements to reach St. Louis after the exposition shall be fully under way. St. Louis, however, had evidently resolved to take a day off in honor of the event, and the attendance was highly gratifying. Neighboring cities and states were not by any means unrepresented, however. Special trains brought into the city thousands of sightseers from Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Arkansas and states even more distant, and these visitors helped to swell the throng that had gathered from all parts of the Mound city and its suburbs to join in the opening of the show.

Throughout the grounds were distributed the world's fair police, Jefferson Guards, as they are called. They were of value in directing the movements of the crowd when a blockade was threatened, and their services were occasionally called in to regulation to clear the way for a passing vehicle connected with the hospital services, the police department or the sanitary department of the exposition. Accidents of a serious character were surprisingly few considering the magnitude of the crowd. The transportation facilities, while not yet completed to their highest capacity, were fairly adequate. The people, too, made the task of transportation companies easy by starting early. Though the hour for official opening was set for early afternoon, eight and nine o'clock in the morning saw the downtown streets filled with people headed for Forest park. The crowds did not depend upon the steam railroads and the trolley lines, however. They came in every conceivable fashion—on foot, on bicycles and in carriages and cabs.

All day long the crowds ebbed and flowed in and about the great white palaces, ascended the ridge to get a better view of the marvellous panorama, or sauntered leisurely along the enticing waterways. With most people the great difficulty was to determine where to commence, and once fairly started on the tour of sight-seeing there came a feeling of helplessness and despair of ever accomplishing the task of inspecting the whole exposition. Many who set out in the early morning boasting that they would cover all the buildings before night found themselves at evening still wandering through the aisles of the first building they had entered. The scattered exhibition-goers who had visited Paris and Chicago mapped their plan of campaign like veterans, and catalogue in hand set bravely to work on some one department with the intention of taking all the others up in turn and doing each thoroughly. There were few of these, however, and most of the visitors regarded the first day as merely an opening skirmish. There was a sort of grand tour of inspection without pausing to examine details, but rather to take in the general effect. As the finishing touches are put to the building within the next few days, and as the exhibits are fully in place, the systematic sightseeing will begin in earnest and there will be less of the hasty rush through the grounds, except by those whose time is limited to a day or two.

The table before the crowd which began to thin out. They dropped off quietly at first in little groups and those who left thus early avoided the crush which began when the mass of visitors began to move toward the gates. The transportation companies were called upon to handle the crowds more en masse than was the case in the forenoon, and as a result there was more or less crowding and confusion. After some delay, however, the heavily laden cars started off, and load after load of human beings, carrying rolled toward the city in long lines; wheelmen and pedestrians took the line of march homeward, leaving darkness to cast a mantle over the great ivory city, thus left untenanted save by the guards and watchmen.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND NEVER SUSPECT IT.

How to Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; as sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, cures all kidney troubles, rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK FOR A VICTORY

ANTI-LAFOLLETTE DELEGATES IN LA CROSSE COUNTY. HOT FIGHT IN MILWAUKEE

Latest Claim Is That Antis Have One Hundred, and La Follette Forty Six.

Caucuses were held yesterday in Milwaukee and La Crosse counties and from one end of the state to the other the results were most eagerly watched for. Indications point to a gain of one district in La Crosse and some ten or fifteen delegates in Milwaukee over the vote of two years ago. Up to noon today all the districts had not been heard from in Milwaukee county but the Daily News office gives out the information that the vote would probably stand the same as it did two years ago, neither side gaining or losing anything. At Madison this morning Mr. Sturges, chief of the Republican headquarters said that the administration voters were but a hundred and fifteen short this morning of having a majority in the state convention. This is including the whole of Dodge county, Ashland county and one district in Eau Claire which are claimed by the La Follette element. The gain in La Crosse county of eleven delegates is very depressing to the governor's forces. Today Buffalo county with eight delegates, Iowa with thirteen, and Vernon with eighteen delegates vote. Of these Iowa may come into the conservative column.

Madison, Wis., April 30.—At the Baensch headquarters today, the greatest confidence prevails. Those in charge of the work say they have but little doubt from the beginning as to how the contest would terminate, and now that the returns from about half of the counties give the anti-La Follette forces so big a lead, the public generally will share their belief that the third term idea is already as good as defeated. Regarding the questions raised as to the result in Ashland and Eau Claire counties, they say that there is no doubt that the whole of Ashland and half of Eau Claire belong and will remain where they are, in the anti-La Follette column.

The table prepared at the Baensch headquarters is the same as that given in the Gazette except for the addition to the anti-La Follette table of nine delegates in Eau Claire and twelve in Ashland.

RURAL CARRIERS ARE NOW FIXED

Senate Has Definitely Settled What They Must Not Do in the Future.

Once more a change has been made in the senate bill on rural free delivery, which will prevent rural mail carriers from soliciting business or receiving orders.

A short time ago the senate committee amended the house bill to allow the carriers to take up this extra work so as to enable them to make money on the side. Nearly this week the following change was inserted: "Rural carriers shall not solicit business or receive orders of any kind for any person or firm and shall not during their hours of employment carry any merchandise for hire. Except they may carry for hire for and upon request of patrons on their routes if the same does not interfere with the business."

The act is to go into effect July 1.

REMOVES PLANT TO OCONOWOC

The H. Kirk White Chemical Company Leaving Janesville for Another City.

The H. Kirk White Chemical company is removing its entire plant from Janesville to Oconowoc. For the past eighteen months the company have occupied the laboratory at the corner of Pleasant and Cherry street, formerly known as the Tallman laboratory. In the new establishment in Oconowoc, thirty hands will be employed and the entire capacity of the laboratory enlarged to meet the growing demand for the products that have been placed upon the market. Mr. H. Kirk White, the head of the concern, this morning he was very sorry to leave Janesville but that he had had a very good offer from Oconowoc parties who wanted stock in the company if removed there and decided to take advantage of them.

LAND LAWS AND RAILROAD LOBBY

GUY MITCHELL WRITES FROM WASHINGTON. DESERT LAW AND SETTLERS

The Latter Are Retarded by Existing Laws—Change Would Benefit the Western States.

The opponents in Congress of any legislation to repeal the land laws have largely refused to meet the question upon its merits and have evaded their duty in charging the great railroads of the West with being behind the movement for the purpose of increasing the value of their own lands. It is a fact that the great transcontinental lines have supported the campaign to repeal the Timber and Stone Act, the commutation clause of the Homestead Act and Desert Land Act which it is well known are constantly being used to acquire great bodies of land without residence and settlement. James J. Hill, the president of the Great Northern which own no land has actively favored the irrigation and land reclamation policy for several years, and in a speech, January 14, before the Minnesota Agricultural Society, he specifically urged that these three laws should be repealed.

Desert Laws Retard Settlement.

It is not difficult to see why Mr. Hill and all the great roads running lines through the desert states, whether they own land or not, should favor the repeal of these laws, especially the Desert Land Law and the commutation clause of the Homestead Law, which operate almost solely to build up great cattle and sheep estates and tend to retard homesteading and put off settlement indefinitely. What the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific and the Burlington and the Union Pacific and all the roads desire above all things is settlement and population along their lines. They want 100 acre farms, not great cattle ranges with twenty miles between ranches, for the farms will bring them traffic beyond the ranges ten to one. Men from the northwest say that what has built up the Great Northern to its present highly prosperous condition has been the rapid advance in settlement and cultivation of the territory through which the road runs. James J. Hill, great railroad man and financier that he is, it is said would rather than anything else go and sit down with some old farmer along his line and discuss for an hour the best methods for him and his neighbors to improve their stock and breed it up and improve their methods of cultivation and introduce new and better crops and get bigger yields per acre.

The direction of attention to the main which will come to the railroads through the supposed advance of their lands if the federal land laws are repealed is a clever shift which has been put forward as a reason why these laws should not be repealed, and saves the land grabbers and necessity of meeting the issue squarely. Considered carefully it is demagogic, based upon the assumption that because the railroads are urging any legislation some people will turn against that legislation, whatever it may be.

As a matter of fact, how will the repeal of the Desert Land Act, for instance, enhance the value of the several million acres of land owned by the various railroads? That land is held mostly at $1.25 per acre and the railroads are glad to get that for it, especially if they can get somebody to settle upon it. The defenders of the Desert Land Law claim that in order to get title from the government it requires an expenditure of at least $1.25 per acre—a cash outlay of $1.00 per acre per year for three years and $1.25 additional to the government. If there is any railroad land desired for agriculture, where land is being taken up under the Desert Land Law, would it not today be purchased preferably at $1.25 from the railroads than at $1.25 per acre? Much the same may be said of the commutation clause of the Homestead Law which requires a residence of 14 months and a payment of $1.25 per acre. If there is any railroad land which is competing with homestead land that is being commuted, would it not be purchased outright from the railroads today at $1.25 per acre rather than from the government at the same price when the government also requires 14 months' residence?

Genuine Settler Uses the Homestead Law.

And always the real settler has the privilege of going upon 160 acres of government land anywhere and homesteading it and living upon it and getting it for absolutely nothing—free for his residence upon it.

But even granting the claims of Senator Hansbrough of North Dakota where the commutation clause has been freely utilized to enable cattle-men to increase their land holdings and of Senator Clark of Wyoming and Senator Warren of Wyoming, where the Desert Land Act has resulted in the acquisition of immense landed estates into single ownership for the purpose of cattle and sheep raising, and of Senator Dubois of Idaho where the commutation clause has been found most useful to big timber syndicates in stealing great tracts of government forest land, and various others—granting their claim, for the sake of argument, that the railroads will benefit their property by the repeal of these land stealing laws, is that any sufficient reason, as Congressmen Reeder of Kansas said in a speech the other day, why they should not be repealed? Is that a reason worthy of statesmen why the best of the remaining public land lands which can later be irrigated and made to support families upon twenty and forty acre tracts—should be practically stolen from the government through a set of land laws so loose and so open to evasion that millions of acres are going through them every year without settlement and without homesteading—laws so miserably constructed and capable of abuse that since national irrigation became a fixed policy, the public land disposals have increased annually by leaps and bounds—increased from 3,453,896.92 acres in 1898 to 9,182,413.16 in 1899, to 13,453,887.56 in 1900, to 15,562,796.59 in 1901, to 18,488,566.30 in 1902, to 22,824,299.00 acres in 1903 and at the present rate of increase will be fully 25,000,000 acres in 1904?

The railroads are openly in favor of the repeal of these laws. They are showing but common sense and business wisdom in urging such legislation and doing everything they can to promote it, for they desire to see their lines built up and their freight traffic increased by the shipment of varied agricultural products, and this can only be accomplished by settlement and population and farming and growing agricultural diversification rather than livestock raising for the next fifty years.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

"What you got to kick about?
Ain't your limbs all good an' stout?
Ain't you got two big, strong hands
To enforce your mind's commands?
Ain't you got a lot o' health—
Better'n pilies an' pilies o' wealth?
Let's sit down an' figger out
What you've got to kick about."

Say you ain't a chump? Well, then,
Better off than some fool men,
Hear all right an' got good eyes?
Them air things you ort to prize,
Got a stummick, lungs an' heart?
Purty good in every part?
Say, I'm jest chock full o' doubt
What you've got to kick about."

Makes me fightin' mad to see
Men as blest as they can be
Go a-growlin' round as though
Life is all a cloud o' woe;
Lookin' sulky all the while
When there ort to be a smile.
Come! let's try to figger out
What you've got to kick about."

This choice sentiment, expressed in homely language, entitled "Uncle Abner on Kickin'" is from the pen of Nixon Waterman, and recently appeared in the Saturday Evening Post.
It is worth reading twice, and pasting
in your hat for future reference.

The world has a liberal sprinkling of kickers and every community is represented. Men and women who are blessed with health, and who are strangers to poverty and suffering, and yet who are so pessimistic that every ray of light comes to them through green goggles.

The city in which they live, instead of being a paradise, is denounced as the poorest place in the state for a home. Criticism and complaint is the order of the day.

The church to which they belong would be better off if their names were removed from the membership roll, for they contribute but little to its support and freely denounce its management.

This class of people seldom unite in the building of a home, and so it comes to pass that many a sweet faced gentle woman is married to a man who never deserved
her love and thoughtful ministrations.

He kicks all day on the street and then goes home to lend cheerfulness to the fireless by renewed efforts in the same direction.

The wife, who was the ideal of perfection during the honeymoon, has fallen below the average of woman-kind, in his estimation, and instead of being a comrade and companion she is considered good enough for the drudgery of every day existence,
and even then does not always satisfy.

The woman who kicks is never dangerous and seldom attracts very much attention. If she is a vigorous athlete in this direction the husband soon finds it out, and either gets a divorce, or joins the ranks of the henpecked fraternity and subsides in oblivion.

David Nelson never appeared on the surface, until his wife Carrie introduced him to the world as the man who was content to stay at home bake the bread and care for the children, while she carved a destiny for the family with her hatchet.

Even David couldn't stand the pressure, and when he landed in the divorcé courts, no word of criticism was offered.

Kicking is not confined to individuals. The pastime frequently takes on organization and under leadership assumes proportions which are both threatening and demoralizing.

There is just now an epidemic of organized labor, containing an element of agitators and walking delegates, whose principle vocation is kicking against conditions and stirring up discord and unrest.

This class of leaders, as a rule, are destitute of thrift and economy, and as a result have every thing to gain and nothing to lose by agitation. They are a libel to the cause of honest labor, and a detriment to the organizations they represent.

Another class of organized kickers masquerade under the title of reformers. They are the product of seed transplanted from the old world, and have yet to discover that American soil is not congenial to the development of their peculiar ideas.

They seem possessed of the notion that American freedom is still in its infancy, and that when it advances to the ideal, with all the wealth divided and all public utilities owned by the people, that everybody will have an income of $2,500 a year, with nothing to do but lie in the shade and drink lemonade.

In the good time coming the average work day will be four hours long.
There will be no millionaires and the man who carries the hod can live in Philadelphia and take a train to New York, every morning without expense, arriving in time for business, and returning in the evening in time for dinner with his family.

The proper division of labor will provide that the man with a pick shall spend 30 days at his avocation, and the other eleven months of the year
behind the office desk.

These men are kickers of a high order. Not content with the land of their adoption, and with the protection and advantages furnished, they would revolution the land, and introduce a heaven without wings or golden harps. The ideal is flattering but it is too transparent for healthy existence or successful development, this side the clouds. While our feet are on the ground let's walk and not kick.

Men in public life, honored by their fellows to positions of trust, sometimes become high kickers. The state of Wisconsin is just now attempting to lasso and catch a specimen of this kind.

With a mind loaded to the gunwals with lofty ideals, and with a stomach that would make a pessimist of an ostrich, with one foot in Iowa most of the time, and the other in the air, the Governor of the Badger state has lost his balance through violent exercises, and when he lands it won't be on his feet.

There is great pleasure in kicking where there is anything to kick about, but the atmosphere is too thin, and a stone wall too obtuse, to produce anything but a tingling sensation, which while gratifying is never dangerous.

People who have occasion to complain, and there are many such, seldom kick. They leave that amusement to husky well developed specimens of the race.
"Makes me fightin' mad to see"
"Men as blest as they can be"
"Go a-growlin' round as though"
"Life is all a cloud o' woe."
"Lookin' sulky all the while."
"When there ought to be a smile."
"Come! let's try to figger out"
"What you've got to kick about."

THE VACANT PLACE.

The death of Mayor Wilson makes it necessary to hold an election to fill the vacancy, and that will doubtless be done at an early date.

Inasmuch as the deceased mayor was a nonpartisan official, it would seem in keeping that his successor should be selected without reference to party lines.

The city needs in the office of the chief executive a conservative level headed business man. A man who possesses ability and who is willing to devote some time to the business of the office. If such a man can be found he should be selected, and if politics can be left out of the question it will be all the better for the interests of the city. If the office seeks the man better service may be expected than if the place is awarded to some candidate whose personal ambition prompts him to seek the place.

The name of W. H. Greenman of the firm of Bort, Bailey & Co., is being freely discussed as a possible candidate. If Mr. Greenman can be induced to accept, the city would be assured of a good official.

Have you heard from Fond du Lac county? The naughty railroads evidently took a hand in. There ought to be a railroad and factory in every county yet to vote. The governor is strong where hot air furnishes the motive power.

Reports from La Fayette county are encouraging and "Green" is also said to be in line. If the good work continues there will be no third term proposition.

The governor has not yet declared himself in the race, but he has all the symptoms of a full fledged candidate.

The Wisconsin Central road, for some unexplained reason, is supporting the Governor in his third term ambition. No criticism is offered by the administration.

In the death of Mayor Wilson the city has lost one of the best officials that the citizens ever elected to office.

PRESS COMMENT.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Walter
Wellman declares it is costing Mr.
Hearst at the rate of $10,000 each for all the delegates he will secure at the St. Louis convention. His candidacy, however, has been a Godsend

SOCIETY.

Twenty members of the Concordia Singing society serenaded Mr. and Mrs. William Ernst at their home, corner of Fifth avenue and Glen streets, last evening. In spite of the confused condition of the house incident to the preparations for removal to Chicago, the troubadours were invited in and delicious refreshments served. Mr. and Mrs. Ernst will go west to Chicago but may decide to make their future residence in California.

The last of the series of delightful dancing parties directed by Prof.

HUMANE SOCIETY
HELD A MEETING

THE QUARTERLY SESSION TOOK PLACE LAST EVENING.

REPORT OF THE WORK DONE

Plans for the Future Regarding Bands of Mercy, Laid Out—Other Projects Talked Of.

The meeting of the Humane society held last evening at the residence of Mr. John Peters was one of the best in its history. The rooms were well filled with members, President Helm-street called the meeting to order at half-past seven, and the secretary, Mrs. E. F. Woods, read the report of work done since the January meeting.
The following was the report for the quarter ending April 20th: Jan. 23.— Horse left standing out for eight or more hours. Thermometer 20 below zero; Vice President Palmer took him to livery stable, Jan. 26.—Small horse drawing heavy load; was old and disabled; complaint made, but we could do nothing, as we could not prove abuse. Feb. 4.—Old horse; had not enough to eat and not properly cared for; horse ordered killed, which was done. Feb. 15.—Marzoff case; possession dog; case before jury. who found defendant not guilty. March 14.—Horse and sled left in streets all afternoon, and until 11 p. m.; put in barn; owner got it out at midnight;
drove it some ten miles; hardly any snow on the ground, and at 7 a. m.
left it standing in street; at 3 p. m.
President Helmstreet took horse to stable; owner arrested and fined $2 and costs, amounting in all to some ten dollars. March 21.—Horses at stable of junk dealer were abused;
gent found horses in poor condition and notified parties that animals would be made if they abused horses. April 2.—Horse over driven; driver arrested;
case not yet settled. April 5.—
Horse left out from 1 p. m. April 11, to 8 a. m. April 6, when it was taken to livery stable; owner arrested and fined $2. April 13.—Complaint against party having horses crowded in barn and not feeding them; officer investigated and found horses well cared for. April 14.—Team of horses left from 2 p. m. until 11 p. m., when Officer Bencke took them to a livery stable. April 15.—Dog reported left at vacant house and starving; Officer Kenyon investigated and found owner and home and taken dog away.
It was well fed. April 20.—Man drunk; drove team and down streets on a run; finished up by running in the gas pump; owner arrested and fined. Total cases this quarter, 12; total cases this year, 29.

The society will call the attention of the city fathers, that every day people of Wisconsin are bitten by mad dogs. Not a paper but contains accounts of such accidents, and they hope that some action will be taken immediately regarding the dog ordinance.
Twelve Bands of Mercy have been organized, with a membership of about 360, as follows: Helmstreet Band of Mercy, Adams school;
Fletcher Band of Mercy, Adams school; Adams Band of Mercy, Adams school; Band of Kindness, Adams school; Lincoln Band of Mercy, Adams school; 5th Grade Band, Adams school; Peters Band of Mercy, Central school; Woods Band of Mercy, Jefferson school; Taltman Band of Mercy, Washington school; Welster Band of Mercy, Webster school; Millcent Band of Mercy, Washington school; Farnsworth Band of Mercy, Grant school. Bands of Mercy will at once be instituted in the Douglas and Jackson schools, and the president was ordered to procure outfits for such bands. The officers of all the bands become members of the Humane society, and will elect their officers in October of each year, and it is proposed to hold a public meeting in October next, when all the members, which will then number over five hundred, will be present.

CONTEST OPENED WITH YELL-FEST

THAT PERSUADED MANY YELLOW
PERIL HAD ARRIVED.

HONORS WENT TO JANESVILLE

Misses Ethel Bates and Harriet Decker Given First Places in League Declamatory.

High school yells, diabolical in conception and terrific in execution—frenzied yells of victory—presaged—car-splitting, nerve-racking shrieks rent the air at the high school auditorium last night. Whitewater, Evansville, and Beloit were all there with big delegations to cheer their favorites in the declamatory and if noise won contests first honors would have been equally shared. The college lineage of most of yells could be easily traced. But there were some unique variations. The true "cheer" spirit was best exemplified by Evansville whose delegation alternately praised the virtues of all their rivals and last but not least, their own. One of their offerings applied to their own contestants, the Janesville girls, and the competing high schools ran as follows:

What's the matter with —?
She's alright!
Who says so?
Everybody!
Isn't she a la-la?
A-a-a-h!

Before Big Audience
An immense audience filling nearly every available seat had found its way into the hall when the tumult and the shouting died at eight o'clock. The opening number by the high school orchestra was well received and the rendition of Eugene Field's "Little Boy Blue" by the Girls' Octette provoked an enthusiastic encore. Then the real work of the evening began. Miss Mabel LeBaron of Evansville told the story of "The Church at Kew's Bar"—a narration filled with religious ecstasy and carrying with it the refrain from a hymn. The emotional parts were well portrayed. "The Honor of the Woods," a story of a boat race, was the declamation given by Miss Anna Stewart of Whitewater. The speaker had an excellent voice and delivery but the rising inflection of the voice on the long drawn out climax of the piece was too long sustained to be effective.

Bessie Burch Sings
Miss Bessie Burch sang "Love the Peddler," a pleasing little ballad, in her usual delightful manner, and responded to an encore. Miss Ella Cook of Beloit gave good shading to the story of "The Lake Stakes" and was equal to the dialogue. Miss Harriet Decker's picture of the coliseum scene "The Sign of the Cross" was well presented. Miss Madge Allen of Whitewater depicted the metamorphosis of the convict "B 606" in a pleasing manner, her conception of the "little child's" part in the dialogue being especially good.

Selection by the Octette
The program was varied at this juncture by another selection—"There Little Girl Don't Cry"—by the Octette. The young ladies were again accorded a flattering reception, and responded to an encore. Miss Edith Parker of Beloit made a very favorable impression and held her audience in the reading of "As the Moon Rose." The climax was well realized. In the midst of her splendid reading of the scene between Jean Valjean and the bishop, taken from Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables," memory failed Miss Ethel Bates for just the fraction of a second. There was a visible stir in the audience but the speaker with perfect composure and without repeating, recovered the thread of the narrative and the delivery was not seriously marred. Miss Esther Thomas of Evansville realized the changing moods of the "house" and the "little" "Dear Rose" who wouldn't spin. In a charming manner. The transition from the pensive to the roguish, the careless, the merry, mental states were made without apparent effort. The little story was written in rhyme but there was no "rhyme-song" in the delivery. It was a vivid picture admirably presented.

Award of Judges
The judges gave first place to Miss Ethel Bates of Janesville, second place to Miss Harriet Decker of Janesville, and third place to Miss Madge Allen of Whitewater.

NEWS OF THE CHICAGO MARKETS

Interesting Gossip Concerning the Closing Reports of the Windy City's Mart

Wheat.—There was a strong wheat market influenced by the cash situation and by the feeling that the lake navigation may result in a sharp demand from the east for the wheat because of inability to get Duluth. Duluth reported 10,000 bushels No. 1 Northern sold to eastern millers, all rail. There were sales of 63,000 bushels here at relatively higher prices. The cables were indifferent, the weather may fine. The sentiment was influenced some by the statement by the N. west miller that the N. west season was two to three weeks late. The visible Monday will be about 1 million decrease.

Corn.—The corn market was rather weak with a widening of the May discount under the July more than 2c at times. The fact that there is a great uncertainty as to when the late controversy will be settled and when it will be possible to get corn east by water, dismiles anyone one to take on any. Corn deliveries Monday will be large. Armour will probably pay for the corn.

Oats.—Oats were higher, early 1/4 @ 5% higher with quite a demand for May receipts only 62 cars with the standard there was a little car lot business and some business reported with the south.

Provisions.—There was the windup today of the May, and there was some increase in the spread of pork and ribs. Lard kept at about 15c difference. Shorts continued to be the buyers. There has been some further selling by packers but the main thing has been a cleaning up.

Shut Gravel Pit: The St. Paul road closed the gravel pit yesterday to permit the forty men employed there to take the special train run from Rockton to Milwaukee at 5 a. m. The holiday was granted by the railroad officials that the men might be present at the caucuses.

Y. M. C. HELD ANNUAL MEETING

REPORTS HEARD OF PAST YEAR'S WORK.

WHAT IT HAS ACCOMPLISHED

Everything Seems To Be Progressing Nicely — Improvements and Work in Gym.

Last evening the annual meeting of the Y. M. C. association was held at the association building. Reports from Secretary Kline, Physical Director Ward, Dr. F. T. Richards, chairman of the junior department; C. D. Childs, chairman of the finance committee, and the president of the Woman's auxiliary, were presented and read. At the conclusion of the reading of the reports the following directors were elected for a term of three years, J. H. Jones, S. B. Healdes, Harry Garbutt, Thomas Erickson and J. A. Crank.

The Meeting
The meeting was called to order by President Lewis and after the opening prayer and reading of the minutes Treasurer W. G. Palmer gave his report on the finances of the association for the past year. The receipts for the past year amounted to $1201.92 and the expenditures were $1159.81, leaving a balance of $121.11 on hand. The receipts were received from membership fees, room-rent, subscriptions, C. & N. W. railway appropriation and other miscellaneous sources. The expenditures were as follows: Salaries, $2,291; interest, $257; reading-matter, $10.55; rebate on room-rent, $16.30; water tax, $105.50; New Gas Light Co., $290.33; Electric Co., $21.30; Telephone Co., $14.74; printing, $16; laundry, $64.50; housing all expenses, $68.12; insurance, $47.25; repairs, $215.45; state association, $100; fuel, $526.06.

Director Ward's Report
J. A. Ward, the physical director, made the following report on the work in his department. There were 125 persons who took exercise. Seven Monday-night athletic contests were held, nine match games at basketball, five practical talks on physical education by prominent Janesville physicians were given with an average attendance of forty-five at each lecture. Since May 1, 1903, nine thousand five hundred and forty-five persons have taken baths at the bath rooms.

Junior Report
Dr. Richards who is in charge of the junior department reported that during the past year some fifty boys were in regular attendance and that much good was being done in this department. John Jones presented the report of the Ladies' Auxiliary which showed many interesting facts. There is a membership of fifty-three and during the past year they have furnished paying fifty dollars on the piano, have supplied the dormitories with the necessary bedding and have had a supervision over the work there. They furnished the supper of the Social Union club during the past winter which netted them eighty dollars in total. Thus far this year they have realized $170, nearly all of which has been spent in the work and supplies for the dormitories. It is the rule of the auxiliary that each one of the members give a few minutes each day to the work of prayer for the young men of the city.

Kline's Report
Secretary Kline presented an encouraging report, emphasizing the increasing harmony in all departments of the work. The strength of the work as mentioned in this report was the fact that so many lines of work are carried on by the association. The Twilight and Social Union clubs are cared for, the general social work of the association proper, the evening educational classes in bookkeeping, shorthand and penmanship.

Mr. Childs' Report
Mr. C. D. Childs of the finance committee made the following report of improvements completed and to be made: Bowling alley, $381.11; furnishing dormitories, $527.25; sewerage system, $158.65; new heating system, $75; painting building and fitting walls, $85; new cement walk, $102; new bath equipment, $600; new cement floor, $175; painting and other improvements, $225; making a total of $2335.52. This statement showed that the liabilities of all kinds amounted to about $2,200 with assets of about half that amount. An effort is now being made to put the institution on its feet, by popular subscription. The association is entitled to every encouragement, and the citizens should of an opportunity to help the good cause along.

Run Down Child, THEN RAN AWAY
Little Ella McGill Was Seriously Injured by a Heartless Bicycle Rider Yesterday.

Little Ella McGill, aged six years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McGill who reside near the State School for the blind, was run down by a bicyclist yesterday afternoon while on her way home from school. A cash two inches long opened the temple artery and the little girl was weak from the loss of blood when playmates came to her assistance. The man on the wheel proceeded leisurely on his way without making any investigation of the injury he had done. He was riding on the part of the bridge reserved for pedestrians only, when the accident occurred.

OUR RAILROAD MEN ON NEW DIVISION

Three Engineers and Like Number of Firemen From Here Are Now Running to McNab.

Engineers John Falter, Alexander Kelms, and John Murphy, and Firemen William Boez, Thomas Ingraham, and William Gole are now on the new Rochelle southern division of the St. Paul road. This line runs from Davis Junction to McNab, a distance of seventy-two miles, and takes the coal country. It is hoped that Janesville, being the logical distributing point for the Mineral Point, Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin Valley, and La Crosse divisions, and for coal going to North McGregor for the Iowa division, will be the place finally preferred by the officials for the division. Otherwise these men who have gone on the Rochelle division will probably find it expedient to remove from the city.

Sunday Meeting: On Sunday afternoon there will be a meeting under the auspices of the Murphy league at the Y. M. C. A. building. Good music and excellent speaking is promised for those who attend.

ship, the securing of good boarding houses for many young men and at least twenty-five young men have been adopted into good positions during the year as a direct influence of the association work. Since entering the building eight years ago over 800 members have left the city and are now located in nearly every state in the union. CHAPTER I.

FOR a detective whose talents had not been recognized at headquarters I possessed an ambition which, fortunately for my standing with the lieutenant of the precinct, had not yet been expressed in words. "Though I had small reason for expecting great things of myself, I had always cherished the hope that if a big case came my way I should be found able to do something with it—something more, that is, than I had seen accomplished by the police of the District of Columbia since I had had the honor of being one of their number. Therefore, when I found myself plunged, almost without my own volition, into the Jeffrey-Moore affair, I believed that the opportunity had come whereby I might distinguish myself."

It had complications, this Jeffrey-Moore affair; greater ones than the public ever knew, keen as the interest in it ran both in and out of Washington.

This is why I propose to tell the story of this great tragedy from my own standpoint, even if in so doing I risk the charge of attempting to exploit my own connection with this celebrated case. In its course I encountered as many disappointments as triumphs and brought out of the affair a heart as sore as it was satisfied, for I am a lover of women and—

But I am keeping you from the story itself.

I was at the station house the night Uncle David came in. He was always called Uncle David, even by the arches who followed him in the street, so I am showing him no disrespect, gentlemen though he is, by giving him a title which as completely characterized him in those days as did his moody ways, his quaint attire and the persistence with which he kept at his side his great mastiff Rudge.

The detective

I had long since heard of the old gentleman as one of the most interesting residents of the precinct. I had even seen him more than once on the avenue, but I had never before been brought face to face with him, and consequently had much too superficial a knowledge of his countenance to determine offhand whether the uneasy light in his small gray eyes was natural to them or simply the result of present excitement. But when he began to talk I detected an unmistakable tremor in his tones and decided that he was in a state of suppressed agitation, though he appeared to have nothing more alarming to impart than the fact that he had seen a light burning in some house presumably empty.

It was all so trivial that I gave him but scant attention till he let a name fall which caused me to prick up my ears and even to put in a word. "The Moore house," he had said.

"The Moore house?" I repeated in amazement. "Are you speaking of the Moore house?"

A thousand recollections came with the name.

"What other?" he grumbled, directing toward me a look as keen as it was impatient. "Do you think that I would bother myself long about a house I had no interest in, or drag Rudge from his warm rug to save some ungrateful neighbor from a possible burglary? No, it is my house which some rogue has chosen to enter. That is," he snarled corrected, as he saw surprise in every eye, "the house which the law will give me, if anything ever happens to that elf of a girl whom my brother left behind him."

Growling some words at the dog, who showed a decided inclination to lie down where he was, the old man made for the door and in another moment would have been in the street, if I had not stopped after him.

"You are a Moore and live in or near that old house?" I asked.

The surprise with which he met this question daunted me a little.

"How long have you been in Washington, I should like to ask," was his acid retort.

"Oh, some five months."

His good nature, or what passed for such in this frangible old man, returned in an instant, and he curtly but not unkindly remarked:

"You haven't learned much in that time." Then, with a nod more ceremonious than many another man's bow, he added, with sudden dignity: "I am of the elder branch and live in the cottage fronting the old place. I am the only resident on the block. When you have lived here longer you will know why that especial neighborhood is not a favorite one with those who cannot boast of the Moore blood. For the present, let us attribute the bad name that it holds to—malaria." And with a significant hitch of his lean shoulders, which set in undulating motion every fold of the old fashioned cloak he wore, he started again for the door.

But my curiosity was by this time roused to fever heat. I knew more about this house than he gave me credit for. No one who had read the papers of late, much less a man connected with the police, could help being well informed in all the details of its remarkable history. What I had failed to know was his close relationship to the family whose name for the last two weeks had been in every mouth.

"Wait!" I called out. "You say that you live opposite the Moore house. You can then tell me—"

But he had no time to stop for any gossip.

"It was all in the papers," he called back. "Read them. But first be sure to find out who has struck a light in the house that we all know has not even a caretaker in it."

It was good advice. My duty and my curiosity both led me to follow it.

Perhaps you have heard of the distinguishing feature of this house. If so, you do not need my explanations. But if, for any reason, you are ignorant of the facts which within a very short time have set a final seal of horror upon this old historic dwelling, then you will be glad to read what has made and will continue to make the Moore house in Washington one to be pointed at in daylight and shunned after dark, not only by superstitious colored folk, but by all who are susceptible to the most ordinary emotions of fear and dread.

It was standing when Washington was a village. It antedates the capitol and the White House. Built by a man of wealth, it bears to this day the impress of the large ideas and quiet elegance of colonial times; but the shadow which speedily fell across it made it a marked place even in those early days. While it has always escaped the hackneyed epithet of "haunted," families that have moved in have as quickly moved out, giving as their excuse that no happiness was to be found there and that sleep was impossible under its roof. That there was some reason for this lack of rest within walls which were not without their tragic reminiscences all must acknowledge. Death had often occurred there, and while this fact can be stated in regard to most old houses, it is not often that one can say, as in this case, that it was invariably sudden and invariably of one character.

A lifeless man, lying outstretched on a certain hearthstone, might be found once in a house and awaken to special comment, but when this same discovery has been made twice, if not thrice, during the history of a single dwelling, one might surely be pardoned a distrust of its seemingly homelike appointments and discern in its slowly darkening walls the presence of an evil which if left to itself might perish in the natural decay of the place, but which, if met and challenged, might strike again and make another blot on its thrice crimsoned hearthstone.

But these are old fables which I should hardly presume to mention had it not been for the recent occurrence which has recalled them to all men's minds and given to this long empty and slowly crumbling building an importance which has spread its fame from one end of the country to the other. I refer to the tragedy attending the wedding lately celebrated there.

Veronica Moore, rich, pretty and willful, had long cherished a strange liking for this crumbling old home of her ancestors and, at the most critical time in her life, conceived the idea of proving to herself and to society at large that no real ban lay upon it save in the imagination of the superstitious. So, being about to marry the choice of her young heart, she caused this house to be opened for the wedding ceremony—with what result you know. Though the occasion was a joyous one and accompanied by all that could give cheer to such a function, it had not escaped the old time shadow. One of the guests, standing in the room of ancient and unblinking memory, the one room which had not been thrown open to the crowd, had been found within five minutes of the ceremony lying on its dolorous hearthstone dead, and, though the bride was spared a knowledge of the dreadful fact till the holy words were said, a panic had seized the guests and the wedding house was suddenly and completely as though the plague had been discovered there.

This is why I hastened to follow Uncle David when he told me that all was not right in this house of tragic memories.

MEETS HUSBAND'S WITNESS

Wife Fights Spouse to Flight After He Threatened to Kill Her.

New York, April 30.—Edmund McLoughlin, a New York broker, who has for some time been separated from his wife, telephoned her at her residence in Brooklyn that he was on his way to kill her, after which he would put an end to himself. She immediately prepared to flee from the house, but the husband arrived before she could get out. As he was about to draw a revolver she shot at him twice with a pistol. The shots did not take effect, but so thoroughly frightened McLoughlin that he retreated to the street and fled. Mrs. McLoughlin fell in a swoon immediately after the firing. "I have not had a warrant issued for my husband's arrest," Mrs. McLoughlin said, "because I am confident that he will end his life, as he has threatened to do. If he does not make away with himself I shall take steps immediately to secure a divorce."

ILLINOIS JUDGE IS INDICTED

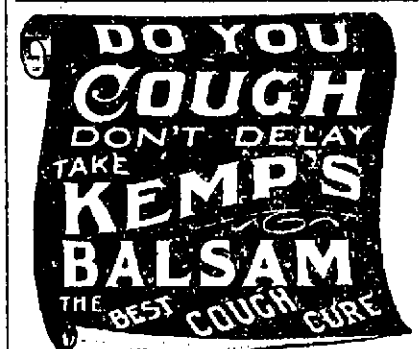

Madison County Grand Jury Also Returns Bills Against Sheriff.

Edwardsville, Ill., April 30.—The Madison county grand jury has indicted Judge Alexander W. Hope, presiding in the city court at Alton, for misconduct in office. Three indictments also were returned against Sheriff C. Frank Crowe of Madison county. The charges in the indictments against Sheriff Crowe grew out of the citizen's raid on the Madison poolrooms last winter. It is alleged the sheriff neglected to serve warrants on attaches of the poolrooms.

DEATH ENDS THEIR DISGRACE

Man and Wife Are Found Dead in Bed at Toledo, Ohio.

Toledo, Ohio, April 30.—John W. Martin and wife were found dead in their bed. It is believed to be a case of double suicide, as Martin was found short in his accounts in the city water works office, where he had been employed for twelve years as a bookkeeper. Both Martin and his wife were prominent in lodge circles. The man's downfall is believed to have been caused by gambling.

Bright's Diseases and Diabetes News

Office Wine and Spirit Review, San Francisco, Nov. 3.

To the Editor of the Gazette: Dear Sir:—The business men of this city who are now proclaiming to the world the discovery of the cure for Bright's disease and Diabetes have asked me as one of the beneficiaries to write to some of my brother editors. Hence this letter to you. I was at first skeptical as anyone. I had reason to be. I had a clear case of chronic Bright's Disease; was ill for a year. It was not thought I would live thirty days. The President of the Pacific States Type Foundry told my wife that the newly discovered diuretic would save my life, and against my private convictions I was put on it. In six months my recovery was complete.

A friend of mine, Dr. A. J. Howe, a prominent physician, was nearly dead with Bright's Disease. On my recovery I told him and he acted the same in his case and he is now well on the road to recovery. I told one of the writers on the Call, whose mother had Diabetes. She has fully recovered. As a brother editor I personally assure you of the truth of the discovery. Thousands of lives are to be saved and I am writing in the hope that this letter will start some of them right.

Respectfully yours,
R. M. WOOD, Editor.

Whiskey and Beer Habit

PERMANENTLY CURED BY

"ORRINE."

ABSOLUTELY SAFE, SURE AND HARMLESS.

Physicians pronounce drunkenness a disease of the nervous system, creating a morbid craving for a stimulant. Continued indulgence in whiskey, beer or wine cuts away the stomach lining and stupefies the digestive organs, thus destroying the digestion and ruining the health. No "will power" can heal the inflamed stomach membranes. "ORRINE" permanently removes the craving for liquor by acting directly on the affected nerves, restoring the stomach and digestive organs to normal conditions, improving the appetite and restoring the health. Can be given secretly if desired.

Cure Effectual or Money Refunded.

Ask your druggist when you know what he thinks of ORRINE; he will endorse our statements as truthful in every respect. If ORRINE fails to cure we will refund you every penny paid for it as cheerfully as we took it.

No Sanitarium Treatment or Publicity!

No Absence from home or loss of time!

Mothers, wives and sisters, you cannot cure those who are afflicted with this most terrible of all diseases by your fervent prayers, or eyes red with tears, nor by your hope that they may stop drinking. It can be done only with ORRINE. You have the remedy—will you use it? If you desire to cure without the knowledge of the patient, buy ORRINE No. 1; if the patient desires to be cured of his own free will, buy ORRINE No. 2. Full directions found in each package. Price $1 per box.

We will gladly furnish a treatment free of cost to any physician to demonstrate that ORRINE is a positive specific for drunkenness.

THE SENTRY BOX

A CONGRESSMAN WHO COULD NOT REPRESENT HIS PEOPLE. BUT EARNED A FARM OR TWO.

Two recent events have directed popular attention to the peculiar conditions of public life at the National Capital—the proposition to increase salaries of officials initiated by the Senate, and the explosion in Congress over the report from the Post Office Department which implicated members in alleged undue attention to the errands of their constituents.

The response to the proposition to increase salaries from president down through the cabinet and including senators and representatives has met with hostility from some quarters, but upon the whole, has been received with unexpected expressions of approval from the body of the public press. The fact that congressmen must legislate to increase their own salaries, if they are ever to be increased, makes the position of these public servants extremely delicate when such an issue arises for consideration. But fair-minded men of all conditions in life freely admit that the present compensation is inadequate, and the fact that the increase now proposed does not take effect during the life of the present congress, does away with the fatal objection which attached to the so-called "salary grab" of 1873. There are indications that the common sense of the nation will finally unite in approving this reasonable project for a proper recognition of intelligent service to the public.

The aftermath of the recriminations which followed the explosion of the postal bomb on the floor of the House of Representatives indicates that the importance of that episode was seriously exaggerated. In most cases no reproach whatever attaches to the members whose names were mentioned, even on the face of the departmental report itself. These members simply did what their constituents expected them to do, what they have always been in the habit of doing and what it was perfectly proper for them to do. They simply called attention to the desirability of increased clerical force in a local postoffice, leaving the department to decide under its own rules, and with a knowledge of its own resources, whether or not the suggestion could be complied with. Certainly there was no harm in that and no harm can permanently be made out of it.

Thus, the responsibilities of senators and congressmen have been called to attention in a twofold light. But these responsibilities do not weigh any more heavily upon them than they do upon any man in Congress, as elsewhere, is largely in the hands of so-called leaders, the most able and experienced members. Out of the great body of representatives, these leaders are evolved by time and the development of their efficiency. It is not necessary that all should be qualified for leadership, but conditions should be such that men competent for leadership should find inducement to enter and continue in the public service.

An interesting illustration of the uncertainties of public life is recalled to the SENTRY by some of these occurrences. A few years since in a northwestern State, an ambitious young politician secured the democratic nomination for congress in an overwhelmingly republican district. This was at the beginning of the "Peoples' Party" movement and it occurred to this nominee that if he could get a ticket of that element in the field, it would draw enough republican votes to assure his own election. He was running against a strong republican candidate and this seemed to be his one hope of success. He accordingly went to a Norwegian farmer, and induced him to secure a "Peoples' Party" nomination for congress, he, the politician, to pay all expenses of organizing the district and making the campaign.

The Norwegian consented to the arrangement, and accepted the expense fund, made the race, and to the astonishment of everybody, was elected to congress. The politician retired permanently from politics, an object of universal ridicule. The Norwegian came to Washington; served his term in congress; cut no figure there in legislation or in behalf of his constituents at the department; lived on his mileage and other perquisites; carefully saved the ten thousand dollars for his two years' valuable services; returned at the end of his term to his rural home; purchased several adjoining farms, and lives today a wealthy citizen, honored by his simple-minded neighbors as a highly successful statesman.

Undoubtedly, the present salary of representatives is an inducement to the cheap politician. But do we want a Congress composed of such? If we do, we could doubtless secure them even at reduced salaries. But if we want men qualified to deal with the large questions that come before Congress for settlement, questions that are growing larger and more important every year, it would seem that we should be willing to pay what their services are worth and what they would command in the market where like qualifications are desired. This in brief is the argument, not of the SENTRY, but of those who support the suggestion which originally emanated from the Bureau, and which can only be carried into practical effect if it is backed by a preponderating sentiment of the American people.

PEOPLE WE KNOW.

They Are Janesville People, and What They Say is of Local Interest.

When an incident like the following occurs right here at home, it is bound to carry weight with our readers. So many strange occurrences go the rounds of the press; are published as facts, people become skeptical. On one subject skepticism is rapidly disappearing. This is due to the actual experience of our citizens, and their public utterances regarding them. The doubter must doubt no more in the face of such evidence as this. The public statement of a reputable citizen living right here at home, one whom you can see every day, leaves no ground for the skeptic to stand on.

Mrs. S. L. Bolden of 64 S. River street says: "During two or three years I suffered most of the time with a terrible dragging down pain in my back just over the kidneys. It was very trying when I was at work and if I did any lifting my bladder became affected causing me considerable annoyance. I also had attacks of headache which seemed like congestion in the top and back of my head. When I read about Doan's Kidney Pills I did not have any too much confidence in them but my daughter got a box at the People's Drug Co's store and persuaded me to use them. They took right hold and made a wonderful change in my condition. I hardly realized how bad I was until Doan's Kidney Pills brought me relief from the afflictions."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for U. S.; also on sale at King's Pharmacy.

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

Advice to Young Husbands.
If you are a husband, and as such soon expect to become a father, take heed. Before you can realize your fondest dreams it is necessary that great suffering be borne by her whom you love better than yourself, you would do anything in your power to alleviate her suffering, would you not?

Mother's Friend
A liniment of unquestioned value in pregnancy, will wonderfully ease the ordeal through which your wife must pass; it is easily within your power to procure it; surely it cannot be other than your duty to do so. One dollar per bottle at all drug stores. Our valuable book, "Motherhood," is free to all who ask.

Dear Sir: You understand chemistry; how'd you like to earn $1000? Devote lead-and-zinc—that's the name of our paint that takes fewer gallons than mixed paint and wears twice as long as lead-and-oil—is made of white-lead, white-zinc, its color, turpentine dryer, and linseed oil. If any chemist finds any adulteration in this paint we'll pay his bill and $1000 besides. It's nobody's business what we put in our paint, of course; but we want it known. For lead-and-zinc and linseed oil, ground together by machinery, are the stuff to paint with; and lead-and-oil mixed by hand is not. We want it known that one word describes the best paint in the world; and that word is Devco.

Are you going to paint? Yours truly
